

Collection Notice of Personal Health Information

When you receive health services of any kind from this clinic, we collect individually identifying health information from you and share this within the clinic and with other health service providers that need the information to provide you with health services.

The individually identifying health information that you provide to us is collected, used and disclosed in accordance with the provisions of the Health Information Act (HIA), and is primarily used to provide diagnostic, treatment and care services to you (section 27(1)(a)), and to bill the Alberta Health Care Insurance Plan (section 27(1)(b)(g)) for services provided. The privacy provisions of the legislation require that we protect your health information from unauthorized access, use, disclosure or destruction.